ABOUT THE SUMMIT

Draft Summit Agenda

EMPOWERING LIVES. TRANSFORMING ECONOMIES.

The global financial market landscape is changing again. And the emerging economies from Asia to Africa are taking a lead as new growth engines in driving global economic recovery on the strength of their rising consumption and production across the entire asset continuum - from commodities to energy and currencies to indices. New-generation and tech-centric exchanges as well as the ecosystem institutions from these emerging, but fast-growing economies, will continue to play a critical role in the development of the financial market infrastructure and formulation of a new-age policy framework.

As the exchanges in these economies scale up market participation and consolidate fragmented liquidity, they will democratize trade by means of inclusive and equitable growth through the integration of local markets with global economies. Technology and IP (Intellectual Property) centric innovations will enable these exchanges to propagate the benefits of globalization – price transparency, efficient trade, hedging against price volatility, effective risk management and access to structured finance – to the last mile.

Themed 'Empowering Lives. Transforming Economies.', the Future of Financial Markets (FOFM™) Leadership Summit 2011, in its third year now, will provide an avenue for global thought-leaders of financial markets to deliberate and debate on the rising significance and the need for these Greenfield exchanges in facilitating global trade and propelling the economy to reshape the Future of Financial Markets.

The Exchange Day on January 21 is centered on the opportunities in financial markets from Singapore to Bahrain and India to Mauritius. While the Ecosystem Day on January 22 will focus on forward and backward links, such as technology, warehousing and collateral management, spot market, info-vending and payment gateway which inter-connects markets with participants.

The Summit endeavors to be the platform committed to redesign Global Financial Markets by engaging industry leaders and experts, especially from the emerging economies, to contribute and influence the Future of Financial Markets. To share your views, log on to www.fofm.in

Dear Friend,

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to the Future of Financial Markets (FOFM™) Leadership Summit 2011 on January 20-22 at Renaissance Mumbai Convention Centre, Powai. Themed 'Empowering Lives. Transforming Economies.', the Summit aims to discuss the growth drivers for emerging economies in redefining the international financial landscape.

As the global economy stands at the fulcrum of a growth curve, the cornerstone to redefine financial architecture is to set up modern and tech-centric financial markets, with a well-developed financial ecosystem to enable value convergence across asset classes and geographies. As the world gets flatter, a network of exchanges and a developed ecosystem bring about economies of scale and enable management of global risks.

The Exchange Day on January 21 and Ecosystem Day on January 22 will see thought-leaders and industry participants engaged in debates and deliberations in the form of Keynote Addresses, Panel Discussions and Presentations on financial exchanges and ecosystem ventures – important milestones for next-generation and tech-centric financial markets.

Financial exchanges, with a well-developed financial ecosystem, can transform economies, empower masses and change lives as they re-engineer emerging markets through real-time end-to-end integration and create a robust market environment. FOFM™ 2011 aims to provide an avenue for industry think-tanks to converge and debate upon critical economic issues to redefine the global economic landscape.

We look forward to your kind participation at the Summit.

Best Regards,

Venkat Chary

GLIMPSES OF FUTURE OF FINANCIAL MARKETS 2010

Draft Summit Agenda

The Future of Financial Markets Leadership Summit 2010, the second Annual Leadership Event from the Financial Technologies Group, was themed 'Driving Financial Inclusion and Equitable Growth.' Termed as the 'Mini Davos' of financial markets, the Summit was attended by over 200 thought leaders, including 65 eminent speakers from countries such as the US, UK, India, Singapore, Bahrain and Mauritius.

The sessions at the event offered a judicious mix of focused panel discussions and were well appreciated for its rich content and eloquent speakers. The panel discussions deliberated upon how inclusive growth is assuming increased significance in the emerging markets of Africa, Middle East and Asia, owing to their sound financial systems and proactive regulators.

I want to compliment India because you and the other countries in this region cut through the financial crisis without the embarrassing situation we had in the United States... You have conducted yourself in a conservative, traditional way and that is an example to the rest of the world.

- Senator Larry Pressler

Fast growing economies from Africa to Asia are increasingly becoming engines of global trade, production, consumption and wealth creation. FOFM™ is a summit where global thought leaders from financial markets congregate to address the key issues that confront us.

- G. N. Bajpai

Growth here in India, as well as for most of Asia, can be brought by large investments and creation of soft infrastructure. Other than telecom it is hard for us to enlist any other soft infrastructure services where supply is adequate and unsatisfactory demand not a major issue.

- Dr. Saumitra Chaudhuri

There is lack of a well defined commodity exchange anywhere in the Asian community. The effect is that we have silo economies, silo regulatory structures and silo points of entries to be able to get into these markets. We need to build a broad based commodity exchange that will integrate the entire Asian investing community.

- Vepa Kamesam

Draft Summit Agenda

The Summit provided a perfect platform for financial market leaders the world over to network, co-operate and exchange ideas on key challenges in the development of global financial markets. FOFM™ 2010 was on a consensus about financial markets in high-growth nations emerging stronger, safer and more transparent in the aftermath of the global financial crisis and playing a significant role in reshaping the future of financial markets, aimed at inclusive growth.

Commodities is the only financial market that rides on a physical market... It touches the life of every single inhabitant in the country. Be it the producer or consumer or other intermediaries... Commodities drive the real economy. They are not only assets, but also consumables.

- B. C. Khatua

Given the high savings rates in India, deep, broad and robust capital markets will not only ensure efficient utilization of savings to meet capital requirements but also help reduce dependency on foreign capital.

- Ashok Jha

We need to recast the banking system's financial architecture to make adequate avenues available to the rural populace. Strategies like micro-finance and mobile telephony with initiatives in financial literacy need to be evolved further to expand reach of services to smaller segments.

- Narayanan Vaghul

Though the entry of banks, MFs and FIs into the Indian commodity markets will unleash a plethora of opportunities, the surrounding ecosystem needs to be strengthened before throwing the markets open to their participation. Significant initiatives need to be undertaken in empowerment of the regulator, opening up of missing markets and development of commodity spot markets to name a few.
